

POLICY AND THE PUBLIC: Involving citizens and civil society in policy making
22 to 26 November 2010

We thought you might be interested to know about our UK-based study programme “Policy and the Public: Involving citizens and civil society in policy making” which is scheduled to run from 22 to 26 November 2010. The programme aims to strengthen the development of civil society, increase public participation in decision-making and help build trust in the national policy process.

This one-week study programme is designed primarily for senior leaders in ministries, agencies and public bodies engaged in solving policy problems at national and local level, those responsible for civil service reform and development and senior representatives from organisations outside government such as non-government organisations (NGOs), interest groups and policy research institutes, who wish to develop a better working relationship with the national policy-making process.

If you or any of your colleagues are interested in attending, please complete the application form at the back of the brochure and return this to us by post, fax or email. Alternatively, you can apply on-line via our website: www.public-admin.co.uk. We advise applicants to get in touch with us as soon as possible so as to allow enough time to prepare travel plans, obtain visas where necessary etc. If you propose to seek funding from external agencies we suggest you approach them in good time. If you would like to discuss this programme, or any of our other activities, in more detail please do not hesitate to contact me.

Kind regards.

Yours sincerely
